I completed the MSc in Environmental Studies at Strathclyde in 2007/08. Prior to this I had spend a year working in resourcing after completing an undergraduate degree in Immunology and Microbiology in 2006.

Despite having a keen interest in the environment, I had no previous experience in this sector and was unsure what degree options were available. Following a recommendation from a friend of mine who was studying towards an MSc in Environmental Science at Strathclyde University, I began researching the various courses available. I opted for the Environmental Studies course as this course offered a wide variety of modules to choose from enabling me to gain both a general background in Environmental Studies as well as a more in depth knowledge in areas that I had a particular interest in.

Following completion of the masters course I secured a job as an Environmental Consultant within a couple of weeks and have since moved on into a role as Environmental Manager for a large company. I would not hesitate in recommending the Environmental Studies course to anyone looking for a career in the Environmental Sector.
