This one-day conference, designed for school leaders and all those with an interest in educational leadership, brings together academic colleagues from the Strathclyde Institute of Education alongside former and current Strathclyde leadership students, as well as friends of Strathclyde. Rooted in our shared commitment to transformative practice across Scottish education, the conference provides a collaborative space to engage with current research, leadership experiences, and forward-thinking approaches to educational change. Delegates will be able to choose four workshops to attend from a wider range of options centred around the theme of social justice leadership.
