

Climate Change Legislation, Litigation and the Rule of Law

6th November 2021, 12:00-6:30pm GMT

Technology and Innovation Centre, University of Strathclyde, Glasgow

Join leading experts in climate litigation and legislation for a half day event during COP 26 in Glasgow addressing Climate Change Legislation, Litigation and the Rule of Law.

The event will be of interest to practitioners, researchers, policy makers, civil society members and other stakeholders interested in better understanding key developments in climate litigation and legislation.

Registration:

Information about registration is available here

This event will be in a hybrid format, but there will be limited space for in person attendance. The event is free to attend.

Agenda:

Multiple sessions will provide timely insights on the following themes:

- The relationship between climate change legislation and litigation
- Cross-cutting themes and trends in domestic climate litigation
- Climate change in international courts, commissions, committees and arbitration courts
- Key elements of an effective legislative framework
- Gauging the effectiveness of climate change litigation

A reception follows the last session.

For additional program please details visit the event page here

SCELG also will formally announce the launch of the Climate Change Litigation Initiative (C²LI) web-based platform during the event.

Organizers:

Strathclyde Centre for Environmental Law and Governance, LSE Grantham Research Institute on Climate Change and the Environment and IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law.

This event is generously sponsored by FILE Foundation.

