PREPARE FOR THE FAIR

BEFORE

Plan who you want to meet

Take a look at the exhibitor list in advance and identify the organisations you'd most like to speak to. Prioritise your must-visit stands and make a note of any questions you'd like to ask.

Do your research

Spend some time exploring exhibitors' websites and social media channels. Understand what they do, the opportunities they offer, and any recent developments or initiatives. Familiarise yourself with application processes and entry requirements so you can ask informed questions.

Dress appropriately

First impressions matter. Smart casual or business attire is recommended, helping you feel confident and professional when meeting employers.

Prepare your introduction

Think about how you'll introduce yourself. A confident opening can help start meaningful conversations. Try to move beyond generic questions and show genuine interest in the organisation.

Know your strengths

Be ready to talk about your skills, experiences, interests and career goals. Consider what makes you stand out and prepare examples that demonstrate your strengths.

Bring a CV (optional)

Some employers may be happy to receive a CV, while others will direct you to apply online. If you choose to bring one, ensure it's up to date, tailored, and free from spelling or formatting errors.

PREPARE FOR THE FAIR

DURING

Make the most of conversations

Be positive, engaged and enthusiastic. Talk about why you're interested in the organisation and how your skills and experiences align with its opportunities.

Ask thoughtful questions

Use the research you've done to ask meaningful questions that help you learn more about the organisation, its culture and available opportunities.

Take notes

Keep a record of useful information, key contacts, application tips and anything you'd like to follow up on after the event.

AFTER

Review your notes

Shortly after the event, revisit your notes while conversations and insights are still fresh in your mind.

Follow up with contacts

If you've connected with representatives, follow up where appropriate and thank them for their time.

Record important deadlines

Make a note of application deadlines, open days, insight events and any other opportunities discussed during the fair.

Grow your professional network

Connect with relevant contacts on LinkedIn and continue building your professional presence online.

Access further support

If you'd like help with applications, CVs, interviews or career planning, the Careers & Employability Service is here to support you.

Beale & Co

Stand Number:	27
Website:	https://beale-law.com/about-us/
Business:	Originally founded in 1838 we have over 180 years' experience providing specialist legal advice to the construction, engineering, infrastructure and insurance sectors. With over 120 lawyers spread across offices in London, Bristol, Glasgow, Dublin, Dubai and Toronto, we deliver an innovative and international service to our clients wherever they may be. In an ever-changing legal market it has never been more important to maintain a high quality specialist service. We have a reputation for working to the highest standards and have thrived in response to a demand that has grown exponentially over the past 25 years. Recognised as being leaders in advising construction, engineering, infrastructure and insurance companies, our people possess unrivalled legal knowledge of these sectors. From vast international projects to the domestic market, we have got what it takes to efficiently handle whatever is required. The ethos of our firm lies in being Partner-led. That does not mean our Partners do all the work (unless you want them to), but that they take total responsibility for quality control and proper supervision of the case to ensure that our clients' needs are understood and met. It is the application of their experience, knowledge and commercial approach, along with the competency of our lawyers, that achieves the best outcome. Whether it is managing complex international arbitration proceedings; professional indemnity disputes; claims handling; corporate and commercial matters; or contracts and projects advisory services, we can handle it – all with an emphasis on finding a positive resolution to satisfy our clients.

Blackadders LLP

Stand Number: 24

Website: www.blackadders.co.uk

Business:

At Blackadders we will offer you an exciting and challenging traineeship that will provide you with the perfect foundation to build a successful legal career. Through 4 seat rotations, you will experience first-hand what it is like to work for a national law firm. You will learn and develop your legal skills through 6-month placements in different areas of the business. This provides you with the opportunity to experience different sectors of the law and help you decide which areas you would ultimately like to specialise in once you complete your traineeship. The training we provide is very thorough and you will be mentored by some of Scotland's most talented lawyers. You will also be provided with weekly CPD training, the majority of which will be provided via our in-house Training Academy (accredited by the Law Society of Scotland) which covers a variety of different topics and will complement your learning. Additionally, you will have the opportunity to develop your interpersonal skills and business acumen through networking events and seminars that the firm organises and takes part in.

Delivered through our global teams across eight core sectors, our integrated legal management approach delivers greater efficiency, price certainty and transparency for our clients without compromising on quality or service.

Faculty of Advocates

Stand Number: 2

Website: <https://www.advocates.org.uk/>

Business:

Advocates are specially trained lawyers who are independent (self-employed) and objective. As well as initially having trained as solicitors they have to undergo further training (devilling) and examinations before they can call to the Scottish Bar. Advocates come from a diverse range of backgrounds but all have an incisive, intelligent interest in the law and a determined approach when it comes to assessing their client's position. They specialise not only in legal analysis but also in the presentation of legal arguments. They can represent clients in the highest courts in the land. As well as being excellent thinkers and presenters, they are excellent negotiators. While advocates are often brought into more difficult cases as they develop, in most situations it is wiser to involve an advocate from the very beginning. Their specialism and independence allow them to provide frank opinions and advice in the very best interest of the client. All advocates belong to the Faculty of Advocates - Scotland's independent referral bar. The usual route to a career at the Bar involves completing an undergraduate degree in Scottish Law, and the Diploma in Legal Practice at one of the following universities: Edinburgh, Glasgow, Strathclyde, Dundee, Aberdeen or Robert Gordon.

How far in advance do I need to start thinking about becoming an advocate? Ideally you should think about this before starting your degree so that you can avoid having to sit additional examinations at a later stage. However, this is not strictly necessary as in most instances Faculty can assist candidates to make up any shortfalls through its own examinations programme.
